WHITECAPPING CASES TUESDAY

Prominent Farmers of Posey Township Will Face Court Next Week.

LEGAL BATTLE IS ANTICIPATED

Among Those Charged With "Riotous Conspiracy" is the Wife of the Victim.

The whitecapping cases against a number of the leading citizens of Posey township that grew out of the attack made upon John Tribbey last August at his home, north of Arlington, will be called for trial in the Rush circuit court next Tuesday morning. All the men indicted have given bond in the sum of $1000. Among the number charged with having a hand in the affair is the wife of the victim, Mrs. John Tribbey. A bitter legal battle is anticipated. Watson, Titsworth & Green will represent the defendants. Prosecutor Charles Hack and Deputy Prosecutor Newbold will represent the State.

Court will convene in regular session next Monday morning and the first day will be spent by Judge Sparks in calling the docket and making up issues as usual.

MARSHALL SENDS REPLY TO WATSON

Speaks of the Pleasant Personal Relations Which Existed in the Campaign.

THANKS WATSON FOR OFFER

Congressman Watson today received the following letter from Governor-elect Thomas R. Marshall, in answer to a letter of congratulation sent following the declaration of Marshall's election:

Columbia City, November 7, 1908.
Hon. James E. Watson, Rushville, Ind.

My Dear Sir—I am very glad to note your letter of congratulation to me, and thank you for your proffer of assistance in my coming administration.

I want also to thank you for the pleasant personal relations which existed between you and me during the recent campaign. If other people had let us alone, we would have had less trouble in the campaign.

Hoping that you may live long and prosper, I remain

Sincerely yours
THOS. R. MARSHALL.

LOST A SUPPER ON A BET

Democratic Boarders Will do the Honors for Republicans.

As a result of Bryan being defeated the Democratic "members" of the Wilson boarding house in West First street will do the honors for the Republican star boarders this evening, tendering them an oyster supper. Of course, all the boarders are in on the proposition.

BEEN IN COURTS FOR SIX YEARS

Final Decision Has Been Made in the Equitable Building Association Cases.

WAS DECLARED BANKRUPT

Stockholders Who Withdrew Funds After Insolvency Must Pay 7 Per Cent of Account.

After six years of lawing in four different counties a final decision has been made in the Decatur county circuit court in the Equitable Building Association cases. The suit was instituted by Alvan Moor, receiver vs. Riley Males, et al. in the Rush circuit court and has been venued to several courts since.

The association was declared bankrupt and it was found that a number of the stockholders had withdrawn funds after it was insolvent. By the decision of the court such stockholders will now have to pay back seven per cent of the amounts withdrawn. The court also found that those who withdrew before the association went into liquidation will likewise have to return seven per cent of such amounts.

HUNTING PARTIES ARE VERY POPULAR

Crowd of Local Nimrods Left This Morning for a Ten Days' Hunt in Fayette County.

TO SHOOT ANYTHING IN SIGHT

A hunting party, which is the fourth one to be formed in this city within the last few weeks, left this morning for a ten days' stay a few miles below Fayetteville. The party is composed of Ol Dale, Fred Clevenger, Ol. Walton, Robert Kelley and Frank Pearsey.

Hunting parties seem to be very popular at this season of the year, when the rabbits, ducks and quail are in such abundance.

Court News

The David Bradley Manufacturing Company has filed suit against J. E. Hinchman, demand on note, $100. Horace H. Eckhouse et al. vs. J. H. Barrett, demand on account, $200. Emma Morrow vs. City of Rushville, suit for damages, demand $5000.

THE WEATHER.

Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday with probably showers in the south portion. Not much change in temperature.

HAS FILED SUIT AGAINST CITY

For Injuries Received in an Accident Which Occurred in North Arthur Street.

ASKS FOR $5000 DAMAGES

No Signal Had Been Placed Upon the Ropes to Warn People of Danger.

Emma Morrow has filed suit in the Rush circuit court against the city of Rushville, asking $5000 damages for injuries sustained in an accident which she holds the city is responsible for.

It will be remembered that Miss Morrow was a domestic employed at the home of Owen L. Carr in North Perkins street, and was injured by a fall from a carriage when she had taken the Carr children for a drive. It was on the night of August 18, and Miss Morrow was driving along Arthur street near Fifth, where workmen in the employ of the city had been repairing water pipes and had dug a trench. A rope had been stretched across the street and the complainant alleges that no danger signal was placed on or near the place to warn people. The horse was driven into the rope and the carriage overturned.

The plaintiff alleges that she was knocked unconscious and lay in that condition for several hours; that her head was severely injured and bruised; that the muscles of her shoulder were wrenched, bruised and injuries which caused the nerves of her shoulder to become paralyzed. Miss Morrow claims to have lost partial use of one of her arms and that she has been deprived of making a livelihood thereby. The plaintiff says she has been put to great expense for medical treatment and nurse hire as a result of the accident.

LECTURE COURSE HAS BEEN SECURED

By the Senior Class of the Rushville High School—High Class in Every Respect.

LADIES ORCHESTRA IS FIRST

The Senior class of the local high school has secured a high class lecture course for the coming winter. It is strictly first class and will sustain the standard set by the Wednesday Evening club in previous years. In fact the course, if bought early in the season would have been one of the most expensive ones ever given. The proceeds of the course will be used by the class to purchase a suitable gift for the high school. The community should patronize this, for a lecture course is of great service to any city.

The first number is the Commonwealth Ladies Orchestra, which appears here November 25. This is the most famous female orchestra in the world. The work of this organization rivals that of the great bands and orchestras of this and other countries. The company is composed of solo artists, selected with great care for the part they take in the exquisite ensemble. Season tickets for $1.50 can be secured from the members of the Senior class.

The contest for Superintendent Headlee's toga was a most interesting affair.

FRIGHTENED BY GRIM SPECTERS

Colored People Report Seeing Ghosts on Seventh Street and That Vicinity.

THE PHANTOM SEEN BY MANY

There is no doubt that the denizens of the northeast part of this city are living in constant fear of ghosts; notwithstanding all the scientific declarations to the contrary that such things do not exist. There is always something interesting about ghost stories and the most interesting part of it is when one talks to many people swearing by all that is good and holy that they have seen strange apparitions, it is indeed worthy of more than passing notice.

They do see something; but what is it? They are honest in recounting their experiences and what is back of it all? A something, sure! Five and six people in groups at various times report seeing the ghosts—these special ghosts that are infesting the goodly old town of Rushville. Strange and weird stories came to the ear of a representative of the Republican from people not given to telling other than the truth. It was said that spectres were seen at a certain place, near the corner of Seventh and Benjamin streets, nearly every night between the bewitching hours of eight and twelve o'clock. Three nights was the vigil kept by the same representative in the hopes of seeing that phantom or unsubstantial image in the hopes of solving the mystery, but nothing materialized or resulted from the careful watch.

Most of the people who have seen the ghosts are colored citizens living in that community. Indeed, so serious has become the condition of affairs that very few colored people are ever seen in that vicinity after nightfall. Young girls employed as domestics in the residence districts, no longer complete their evening work at the homes where they are employed, but leave immediately after the evening meal is put on the table and resume their work an hour earlier in the morning.

The first story came about three weeks ago. Five or six girls were going along Seventh street chatting merrily when of a sudden a white specter appeared in front of them. It looked at first like a white ball. Then it took a shape like a dog. One of the girls shouted at the supposed animal and with a fierce growl it started in the opposite direction. They gave chase, being within fifteen or twenty feet. The animal kept getting larger as they ran. After they had covered a block it had grown into a mammoth animal resembling a horse and equally as large. Then it disappeared before their very eyes. With a scream the girls scattered in all directions and ran home.

Since then many persons have reported seeing phantoms in various shapes. A few evenings later, a party of four or five young ladies and gentlemen were walking along the street in about the same locality where the white specter was seen, and naturally the conversation turned to ghosts. One of the party said that whenever you could feel a warm breeze on a cool night or in a cool place, that was an unmistakable sign that ghosts were in that territory. A moment later an unexpected and warm breeze struck them full in the face.

"Turn around and you will see the ghosts if there is anything in what I was telling you," said the one who had just told of the conditions under which ghosts make their appearance.

They turned around and the sight that met their eyes fairly made their blood run cold through their veins. Of all the hideous, ugly, ungodly monstrosities that ever their gaze fell on stood but a few feet away, with a demoniac grin on his face. He was an old man, scarcely a foot high, and he had a long, white flowing beard that reached to the ground. Not a one of them but what was frightened out of their wits and they could neither speak nor move. Finally one of them summoned courage to nudge another with his elbow; the little old, low man did likewise. Every move made by the frightened colored people he quickly emulated with a grin on his face and merry twinkle in his devilish eyes. With a shrill cry one of the party broke into a run, closely followed by the rest. And the story was the story of the hour in that community for several days.

Many claim to have seen a man dressed in white and others declare they have seen a woman attired in a black, flowing robe at all hours of the night.

In a home near the scene where the ghosts walk many strange things have occurred. The upstairs is not furnished and is never used, still residents nearby claim they have seen many unusual happenings, even in broad daylight. One woman says she passed the place recently and looking up at the front window saw a beautiful stand table on which was a handsome lighted library lamp. She turned to call someone and looking a second time saw seven babies in the nude perched about the table. She ran for a neighboring woman and when they returned a large moose head was seen upon the table in the room that was known never to be occupied or entered by anyone.

The appearing of the apparition in various forms has caused a feeling of unrest and fear among the people of that community that would be difficult for those not familiar with them and who had not talked with them to fully appreciate. It is an inexplicable feeling and works a hardship on many for it is little less than the severest of punishment for anyone to venture out unless it is absolutely necessary.

LOOKS LIKE THE CAMPAIGN IS ON

Watson, His Secretary and Two Stenographers are Answering "Remembrances."

BIG MEN DO NOT UNDERSTAND

Ernest B. Thomas, secretary to Congressman Watson, is now busily engaged, together with two stenographers, assisting Mr. Watson answer the hundreds of letters he has received since the election from his friends throughout the entire country. Many expressions of the kindest of feelings were sent Mr. Watson from some of the biggest men in the nation. His defeat was wholly unlooked for among the men of fame at the nation's capitol who could not understand how such a bright and capable man would be turned down at the polls of Indiana. But they know not of county option or our friend, Governor Hanly, and the queer ideas he has bubbling over in his system.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

The regular annual announcement of the shortage in the hickory nut crop has been made. This year, however, it seems to be more or less serious. The hickory nuts are said to be few, and the quality, generally speaking, the worst ever. The kernels are shriveled and dry and tasteless.

GREAT THINGS ACCOMPLISHED

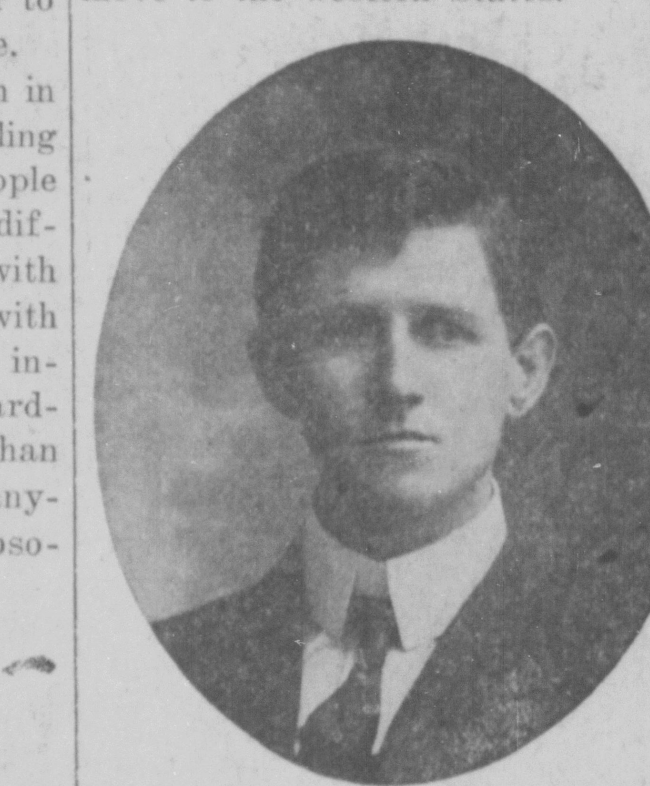

County Superintendent W. O. Headlee Handed in His Resignation Today to County Auditor.

FOUR ASPIRANTS FOR POSITION

Has Sold His Property and Will Soon Move to San Angelo, Texas to Reside Permanently.

County Superintendent W. O. Headlee today handed in his resignation, which will take effect Wednesday, November 18, to County Auditor Albert Winship. Mr. Headlee has sold his property in West Tenth street and together with his family, will leave in a very short time for San Angelo, Texas, where he will probably live, if the climate is agreeable. Mr. Headlee's health has been very poor for several months, and in his endeavor to find a climate which is better suited to his conditions, he must leave the many friends which he has made while in this city.

He had a very serious illness last winter from which he has never fully recovered and in an effort to regain some of his lost strength Mr. Headlee went to North Carolina. He returned a few weeks ago very little improved and has finally decided that he must move to the western States.

W. O. Headlee has been one of the best superintendents that has ever held the office in this county. His excellent service and ability has placed him far above the average. He has not only been competent in his own office, but has branched off in many other lines of work. The boys' corn club was instituted by Mr. Headlee and has done more towards interesting young men in the work of the farm, by giving them a chance to exhibit the work of their own hands, than any other thing. He is also a very thorough student of birds and has done much work along that line.

But the one great work which Mr. Headlee has accomplished is the permanent establishment of the Chautauqua in this city. The people of Rush county owe all the benefits to be derived from this institution to him. With tireless energy and without any pecuniary gain for the time spent, Mr. Headlee has made the Chautauqua a fixture in this community. If for no other thing, he will long be held in high esteem for this one accomplishment.

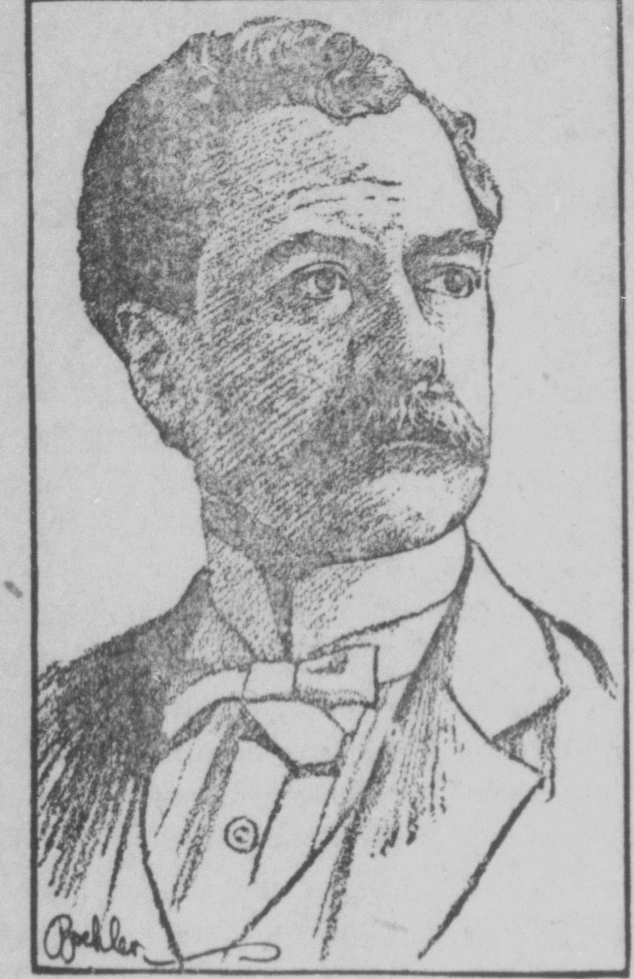

The many friends of Mr. Headlee wish to express their sincere regret at his departure from this community and hope he will succeed wherever he may reside. He has formed many acquaintances and friendships during his stay in this city and is loved by citizen, teacher and pupil alike.

John Geraghty, W. A. Stockinger of this city, Orlando Randall of Mays Station, and C. M. George of New Salem are all aspirants for his position. The several township trustees of this county will elect a man to fill the office sometime before Mr. Headlee's resignation takes effect. There are eight Republican and four Democratic trustees.

WENT CUNNING
FOR THE EDITOR
Former Senator Carmack Shot
by Irate Reader.
TRAGIC END OF POLITICAL FEUD

Brilliant Editor of the Nashville Tennessean Was Met on the Street by Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, a Political Opponent, and the Latter's Son Robin, a Young Lawyer, and When the Smoke of Battle Cleared Away Carmack Was Lying Dead on the Pavement and Young Cooper Was Wounded.

Nashville, Tenn., Nov. 10.—Former Senator Edward Ward Carmack, editor of the Tennessean, was shot and killed late Monday afternoon on Seventh avenue north, in front of the Polk flats, by Robin Cooper, a son of Colonel Duncan B. Cooper. Mr. Carmack was going north on Seventh avenue in front of the Polk flats as Colonel Cooper and his son Robin were approaching Seventh avenue on Union street. Soon after they came in sight of one another the shooting began, Robin Cooper, it is said, firing two shots and Senator Carmack one. Colonel Duncan B. Cooper, it is said drew his pistol, but it is said did not fire. Senator Carmack fell to the ground, dying instantly. Robin Cooper was shot in the right shoulder, but was not badly hurt.

It is understood that the trouble is one of the results of the recent Democratic gubernatorial primary in which Carmack was defeated. Carmack has, since he has been editor of the Tennessean, been quite caustic in criticizing what he called the Democratic machine, and has had several editorials about Colonel Cooper.

Within the past few days, it is said, Colonel Cooper notified Carmack that these editorial criticisms must cease. Monday morning another editorial reference to Colonel Cooper appeared in the Tennessean, and this is supposed to have been the immediate cause of the trouble.

As soon as Senator Carmack fell on the edge of the street, Colonel Duncan Cooper put his arm around Robin Cooper and both walked a few feet down Seventh avenue to Dr. R. G. Fort's office, where the slight wound in his shoulder was examined and the wound treated. Dr. Fort stated that the wound was very slight.

An ambulance carried the body of Mr. Carmack to an undertaking establishment. The pistol of Mr. Carmack, a 32-calibre, was lying at his side with two of the chambers empty when the body was picked up and was turned over to an officer. The stump of a cigar Mr. Carmack had been smoking was also on the street beside him, where it had fallen from his mouth as he fell.

Young Cooper was later carried to a hospital and Colonel Cooper is held at police headquarters. He has made no statement. Robin Cooper is a practicing attorney at law, twenty-seven years old and single.

Duncan Cooper is a well-known newspaper man and politician, having held executive positions on Nashville newspapers for several years.

Burglars Make Rich Haul.
New York, Nov. 9.—With the ray of a burglar's dark lantern shining in their eyes and two revolvers held by masked men covering them, the five members of the family of Charles E. Tayntor, a wealthy granite dealer, lay in bed in the Tayntor home at Borough Park, Brooklyn for more than an hour, while a third masked burglar secured $10,000 worth of jewelry and silverware. Then the burglars bound Tayntor hand and foot and escaped with their booty.

Young Farmer Commits Suicide.
Kokomo, Ind., Nov. 10.—Harry Newby, the twenty-year-old son of W. F. Newby, a wealthy farmer living eight miles west of this city, committed suicide, shooting himself through the heart and dying instantly. No cause is known for the suicide.

HALL AND ALEY
ONLY DEMOCRATS
Republicans Secure All Offices
Below Governor But Two.
DEMOCRATS WILL NOT GIVE UP

Alleging That There Have Been Irregularities Both in the Ballot and the Count Sufficient to Declare the Result in Their Favor, the Democrats State That a Contest on All Offices Given to the Republicans Will Be Filed With the Legislature That Dispute May Be Finally Settled.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—The work of totaling the vote cast in Indiana at the recent election is now in progress in the secretary of state's office. The vote for governor was canvassed first. It showed the following result:

Thomas R. Marshall (Dem.)...348,849
James E. Watson (Rep.)...334,040
Sumner W. Haynes (Pro.)... 15,926
F. J. S. Robinson (Peoples)... 986
Frank S. Goodman (Soc.)... 11,948
Oliver P. Stoner (Soc. Lab.)... 573
James M. Zion (Ind.)... 383

Marshall's official plurality over Watson is 14,809.

The pluralities of the other successful candidates for the various state offices will be made known as rapidly as the totals can be made. The additions are being made on two adding machines, one operated by Fred A. Sims, secretary of state, and the other by Edward B. Raub, the latter on behalf of the Democrats. Frank I. Grubbs, deputy secretary of state, reads the figures from the election record in which the returns were entered, and Congressman Lincoln Dixon of the Fourth district, who represents the Democrats at the count, compares them with the figures in the election certificates sent in by the county clerks. As the figures are called off by Grubbs the additions are made by Sims and Raub, and comparisons also made with sheets kept by E. B. Swift and John McGee, also representing the Democrats.

All this precaution is being taken in order to discover any errors in the figures, if any there should be.

Though the official totals of the vote for governor were the only ones that had been completed, each Republican candidate for a state office kept track of his own vote as the official returns came in to the secretary of state, and when the last county was heard from the candidates made their own totals. The totals thus made show that the following Republicans were elected by pluralities named:

Fred A. Sims, secretary of state... 492
John C. Billheimer, auditor... 228
Oscar Hadley, treasurer... 838
James Bingham, attorney general... 600
George W. Self, reporter of supreme court... 186
J. L. Peetz, statistician... 316
Q. A. Myers, judge supreme court... 1,041
David Myers, judge of appellate court... 1,168

From the same source the returns showed that the following Democratic candidates, in addition to Marshall, were elected:

Frank J. Hall, lieutenant governor... 1,541
Robert J. Aley, superintendent of public instruction... 750

Democrats Will Contest.

The Democrats are still insisting that their entire state ticket was elected, and it is certain that there will be a contest on their part for every office that is given to a Republican. Burt New, candidate for reporter of the supreme court, said that he was positive that fair returns from all the counties would show that he had defeated George W. Self, Republican. New said that Self's lead as shown on the face of the returns was only about 100 votes, and that he had discovered enough errors in the returns more than to wipe out this slender lead.

Stokes Jackson, Democratic state chairman, stated positively that the Democrats would make a contest for every office for which a certificate of election should be issued to a Republican. He said the contests would be based on not only errors in the returns, but on charges of actual election frauds.

"There is plenty of evidence of fraud," said Jackson. "A report reached me this forenoon of one Democratic precinct in one of the counties of northern Indiana in which the tally sheets were burned. This is only one instance. There will also be charges of bribery in some of the counties, and the naturalization of foreigners in Lake county will be another ground for the contest. I cannot make public all the grounds on which the contest will be based, but they will all come out at the right time."

The question of just how a contest shall be conducted in such a case is being discussed by both sides. The statutes fix the methods of procedure. The law says that a contestant shall file with the house of representatives a notice of contest. A notice shall then be given the contestee, and the house and the senate shall each appoint by viva voce vote a committee of seven members to hear and determine the contest.

DISPOSING OF PLATT'S TOGA
Elihu Root Thought to Be in Line as Senatorial Successor.
Washington, Nov. 10.—It is the general opinion in Washington that as a result of a long conference at the White House between President Roosevelt, James Wadsworth, jr., speaker of the New York state assembly, and William L. Ward, Republican national committee and one of the foremost leaders in New York state politics, the man who will be supported by them next January as the candidate before the New York legislature to succeed Thos. C. Platt on March 4, 1909, as United States senator from New York, will be Elihu Root of Clinton, N. Y., the present secretary of state of the United States.

DISAPPOINTED MAN
SHOT POSTMASTER
Edward M. Morgan of New York Fatally Wounded.

New York, Nov. 10.—Postmaster Edward M. Morgan was shot and perhaps fatally hurt while on his way to his office by a disappointed officeseeker named Eric H. B. Mackey, who committed suicide immediately after his attempt at murder. Mackey was a stenographer of 546 Broadway.

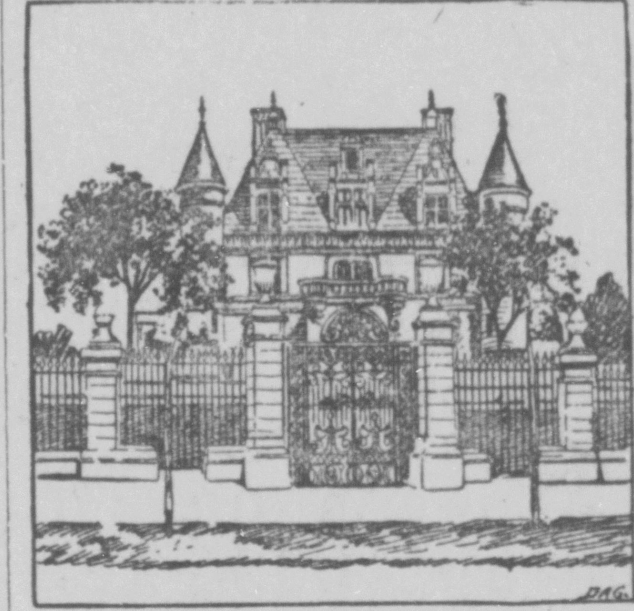

Postmaster Morgan is in a critical condition, but the surgeons say he may recover.

Mr. Morgan probably owes his life to the quick wit and bravery of his fourteen-year-old daughter Dorothy, who saw Mackey draw his revolver and struck it with her hand. This deflected the bullet, otherwise the postmaster would have been fatally wounded, for his assailant was at close range and fired four shots in all. The shooting occurred at 146th street and only a short distance from Mr. Morgan's home. He was on his way down town at the time.

An investigation of the life and record of Mackey reveals that he was of a morbid nature and a former inmate of an asylum in Worcester, Mass. That his act was premeditated is made certain by a letter he left, but aside from a fancied grievance against Mr. Morgan and the postoffice authorities concerning the handling of his mail, nothing has come to light to indicate why he should have sought to murder the postmaster.

SCHWAB QUILTS NEW YORK
Discharges Fifty Servants and Closes $7,000,000 Palace.

New York, Nov. 10.—The magnificent $7,000,000 palace of Charles M. Schwab, ex-president of the steel trust, on Riverside drive is closed up. The reason given by Mr. Schwab is that he can no longer afford to keep his costly residence open. Mr. Schwab made this announcement when he discharged his fifty servants.

He has said that he will make his permanent home in Bethlehem, Pa., where he can attend more closely to his duties as president of the Bethlehem Steel company.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Richard Croker will leave Ireland on Saturday for a visit to the United States.

Official confirmation has been received from Teheran of a reactionary plot to abolish the Persian parliament.

The stay of President-elect Taft at the Virginia Hot Springs will be prolonged until the first week of December.

Liberal primary receipts offset higher prices for wheat at European grain centers and caused a steady tone in the Chicago market.

President Roosevelt considers the appointment of the commission on country life one of the most important pieces of work he has done.

Oscar Huder shot and killed his wife at Wichita, Kan., shot at his mother-in-law, then turned the revolver on himself and blew his brains out.

A fire in the resort of Annie Woods at Lead, S. D., resulted in the fatal injury of two persons and six others received injuries more or less dangerous.

It is expected that the debate on the subject of Emperor William's interview, which recently was published in a London paper, will be exceedingly lively, probably taking up two days in the German reichstag.

Starting with a whirlwind of tremendous trading at prices which threatened sharp declines before the day was over, the stock market, with sales of 1,633,000 shares, Monday broke all records for activity since last March.

You If Haven't Got What You Want, Ask For It!

Now that the election is over, we are getting down to business and brass tacks. The Daily Republican has a desire it hopes to have gratified and kindly asks the cooperation of all subscribers, as it will be for our mutual good.

Briefly, the plan is as follows: We wish to have two thousand or more subscribers to our daily publication. We now have 1725. It will be quite a distinction for a city as secure that number we must get 275 new subscribers, as we small as Rushville to have a newspaper with two thousand subscribers, but we are inspired with the confidence of securing that number when we note the fact that we have been steadily gaining even in the face of a campaign. Yesterday we got five new subscribers, today four new ones, and scarcely a week has passed during the last fifty-two but what we have made a gain of eight.

Now here is where you come in. It enables us to publish an expensive newspaper, in a thoroughly up-to-date and expensively equipped printing office, and you reap the benefits with us. Our big list has made it possible for us to give the people of Rush county a newspaper that provokes the admiration of newspaper men throughout all of Eastern Indiana.

We have not had a solicitor in the field since the daily was inaugurated. Our success has been little short of wonderful, and we take this opportunity of expressing our profound gratitude to our patrons who have made it so.

If you can conscientiously say a good word for the Daily Republican to your friends and neighbors, do so and see how soon we will reach the two thousand mark.

We now have the largest subscription list by a thousand ever enjoyed by any daily publication in Rush county. Our list is always open for inspection. Advertisers always bear this in mind when they want to reach the "people."

Get behind the two thousand figure and give a little push for an intense circulation.

The township board of canvassers met in the trustee's office at ten o'clock a. m. the day after the election and coming to no conclusion, adjourned to meet next day and have the candidates for successor present. So next day the candidates being present, also Mr. Rolla Zorne and Mr. Clifton, the best manner of settling the tie was discussed by the board and those present. Finally it was suggested by Mr. Zorne that slips of paper be cut just the same size, and, have each to write his name on one of the tickets. They did as asked and wrote their names. Then Mr. Clifton was selected to make the drawing, he did so and Mr. Melville Gray's name was drawn out first. The Board of canvassers issued a certificate of election to Mr. Gray and Mr. Wm. Martin. The candidates said they would be satisfied with the manner of casting lots.

Happier Outlook For Farmers

Objects For Which the Commission on Country Life Was Appointed by President Roosevelt—Why Farmers Need to Co-operate to Lessen the Farm Drudgery and Make Life More Attractive to Themselves and Their Families.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

TWO of the most important actions of President Roosevelt or of any president in recent times were nonpartisan in character and in any sense of strict construction were outside the prescribed duties of his office. One was the calling of the convention of governors to consider the conservation of our natural resources, and the other was the appointment of the commission to investigate the condition of our farmers and report methods for their improvement. It would be difficult to find two more praiseworthy objects. Into both of them all patriots and lovers of their race can enter with the utmost heartiness. The two subjects are kindred in character and together with the beautifying of our cities and villages constitute a field of effort in which the "harvest is ripe, but the laborers are few."

It is difficult to measure the relative importance of contemporary movements, but it is the opinion of the writer that the future will find none more commendable than the broad and general crusade included under these three heads. It is philanthropic in the highest degree. That it is necessary the destruction of our forests and the abandonment of our farms demonstrate. Its aims are for betterment, the creation of more beautiful surroundings and the increase of happiness. It not only goes with nature, but brings men back to nature. It is both practical and idealistic. It means the improvement of the outer and inner man. It makes for happier homes. It tends to an increased love of nature and hence an increased love brought the farmer somewhat nearer to his kind. What is now required are good roads, the beautifying of the landscape and the advancement of social and intellectual life in rural communities. In a business way the farmers need more co-operation among themselves both in buying and selling. Now they are at the mercy of market manipulators and middlemen. If they would band together, had warehouses in which to store their products until the market was most favorable and would buy in large quantities they would save at both ends. These objects can frequently be brought about by organizations such as the Grange, the Alliance, the Farmers' union and kindred bodies. Such movements serve another desirable object in that they increase the social life of the farmer and heighten his intellectual life, the lodge room often serving as a debating club, a literary society and a school.

The writer has advocated a general movement embracing all these objects. All of these efforts seemed to him related and capable of being included in one general work. In a gardening and landscape page he has repeatedly urged this entire programme, at one time giving it a definite statement thus:

It has occurred to the writer that there should be a general movement inaugurated along certain definite lines that are kindred and that naturally support each other.

The first of these should be a propaganda showing the importance of horticulture and landscape gardening. This should not be confined to large estates, but the people generally should be interested in it.

Second.—A movement should be inaugurated against the prim, precise and formal seventh or that relating to school work on these lines. The selection of Gifford Pinchot, the efficient head of the forestry bureau, as a member of the commission gives assurance that tree planting will also enter into consideration. As for landscape gardening and the beautifying of environments, these must come both in city and country. The president specifically mentions the school feature, and the work of the commission has already developed the imperative need of good roads. Good roads not only assist the farmer in getting to market, but facilitate travel and add to the amiability of all concerned. It would be frightful to contemplate how many men have gone wrong through swearing at bad roads.

The five gentlemen asked by the president to serve on the commission are Professor L. H. Bailey, director of the New York State Agricultural college; Gifford Pinchot, head of the forestry department; Henry Wallace, editor of an agricultural paper at Des Moines, Ia.; Walter H. Page, editor of the World's Work, and Professor Kenyon L. Butterfield, president of the Massachusetts Agricultural college.

Enthusiastic Forester.

Gifford Pinchot is the first real forester we have had in this country. He is a man after the president's own heart, one who is not satisfied unless he is doing something every available hour of the day. Even when he plays games he puts his whole heart into it. He belongs to the president's "tennis cabinet" and also accompanies Mr. Roosevelt on tree chopping expeditions. Mr. Pinchot's immense services to the country in stopping the depredations of timber thieves, in putting bounds on greed in the cutting of lumber, in introducing a scientific system in the choice of trees for lumber so that the forests are not left depleted, in planting trees on land useless for other purposes, in caring for the woodlands already in existence and in extending the knowledge of forestry cannot receive too high praise. Not till a future generation will the worth of this work be fully appreciated. Had it not been for some such man stepping into the breach there would have been a timber famine in this country inside of a half century. Even as it is the peril is not entirely past.

The secret of Mr. Pinchot's success is that he is one of those men who believe in their cause. He believes in it so much that he is ready to devote his life to it. It is that kind of man that moves the world. Pinchot and others are rapidly educating this country up to the needs of planting trees and preserving those we already have. It is certain that he will take up the kindred work of improving life on the farm with the same fine enthusiasm.

A Work of Great Import.

Walter H. Page in his magazine, the World's Work, has long advocated such a movement as the president has put under way. His intelligent appreciation of the importance of the task may be judged from the following paragraph, which appeared in an editorial summing up the farmer and his future:

Getting a living from the soil is now a scientific and profitable pursuit for those who know best how to do it—those who take advantage of all the new knowledge. As the number of such persons increases and better and better methods are used the profits and the joys of country life will grow. Organization will take the place of wasteful individual work. The intellectual life will be cultivated. The time dreamed of by the poets and philosophers will come—may come—throughout the great fertile stretches of our country, and it would come within a remarkably short time if all the forces now at work for it could be co-ordinated and directed right. A great common movement toward such an end would take rank as the most important work in our land, perhaps the most important in the whole world.

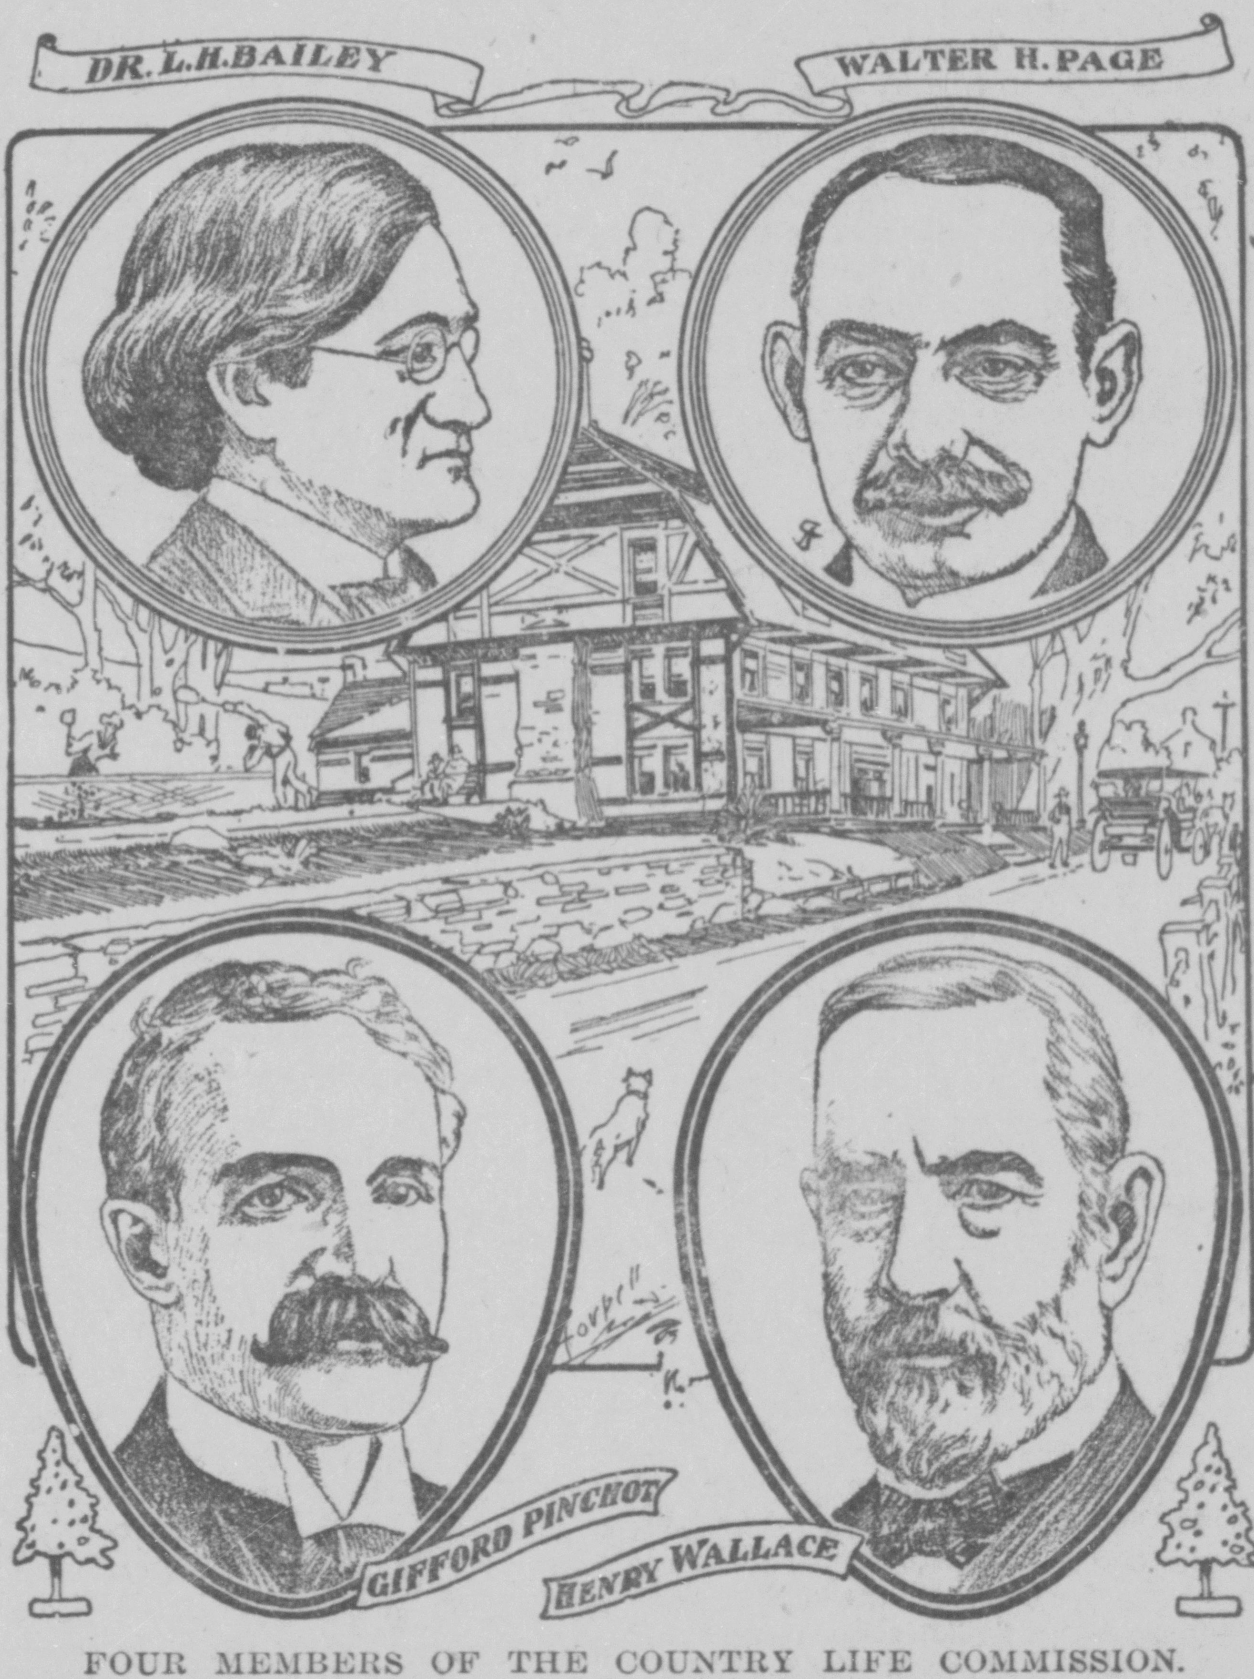

That has the right ring. With two such men as Pinchot and Page on this commission something worth while will follow. I do not know the other gentlemen, but judge from what little I have heard of them that they are of the same sort.

It is the president's desire that the commission deliver its report not later than the beginning of the new year, after which he will embody its conclusions and some ideas of his own in a message to congress.

The commission has already written nearly a half million letters to farmers and other persons connected with country life. Answers to these will be tabulated by the census bureau, and unusual or notable replies will be read by some member of the commission. Hearings are being held throughout the country which will extend well into December.

What Farmers Need.

In all fairness it must be said that our agricultural department is already doing an immense service to the farmers. It is spreading knowledge of scientific methods, is conducting important experiments and in the south is carrying on schools that are of great practical benefit. As far as it goes, that work is well. As the president says, however, "agriculture is not all of country life." It is important to get the largest possible crops out of the soil. It is also important to get the most of joy and progress out of the heart and soul of man. What the farmers need is to unite for their own protection, stop the leeches from bleeding them to death, get all the latest machinery and scientific knowledge to aid them, have warehouses and band themselves together both to buy and sell, organize for mutual benefit, improvement and social life, beautify their homes, make life more attractive to themselves, their wives and their children, learn to eliminate the drudgery—in a word, to find themselves and discover the secret of all happiness in knowing how to live. It can be done, and with intelligent investigation and persevering effort it will be done. The farmers need what we all need—to learn how to co-operate.

FOUR MEMBERS OF THE COUNTRY LIFE COMMISSION.

of country. It helps those now living, but still more it helps the generations unborn. It benefits the farmer, on whose well being the prosperity of all nations rests. May it not well be that in years to come this crusade to improve the life on the farm, beautify landscapes, cities and villages, conserve and replant our forests, make better roads and better streets, will grow to be a fountain of blessing to the race and will receive the plaudits of that greater, wiser and better humanity that the future is to bring forth?

Need of Co-operation.

I know of no humanitarian effort of modern times that appeals to my soul more powerfully than does this. With the improvement of transportation facilities through the automobile, the electric road, the steam road, and, latest and greatest, the ships of the air, men will live more and more distant from their places of business. This will end the frightful congestion of our cities and will improve the appearance of the country and the conveniences of rural life. Then the lessening of the drudgery of the farm and the increasing of the social and intellectual life of the farmer and his family will tend to stop the flocking of young men and women to the city and will increase the prosperity, the intelligence and the happiness of our most numerous class. In many European nations the farms are so cut up that those who till them can group their homes into little hamlets. This removes the lonesomeness of country life and adds to social pleasure. In this country the introduction of the telephone and rural free delivery has al and in favor of following nature on lines of natural grace and beauty.

Third.—Both of these should support the campaign for the beautifying of cities and villages, with which they are so closely connected, and in turn should be supported by it.

Fourth.—They should also lend sympathetic aid to the efforts at tree planting and the preservation of forests, which should be made to serve the ends of beauty as well as those of utility.

Fifth.—All these relate, although somewhat more remotely, to the movement for good roads in the country and for cleaner and better preserved streets in village and city.

Sixth.—The beautifying of farm surroundings and the making of farm life more attractive and interesting to the young is another part of the same general movement.

Seventh, and most important of all perhaps, is the beautifying of school grounds and interesting children in all the general advance here outlined.

Here is a definite programme. Why should not all the societies interested in any phase of the subject be appealed to for this general programme? Why should not all these societies support each other in this common work? Why should not the newspapers, the pulpit, the woman's clubs and the teachers take up the crusade? Why should not our agricultural department be interested in a definite way in this entire programme? Why should not a general national movement be inaugurated on these lines that would enlist the support not alone of a few experts and specialists, but of the people generally?

Value of Good Roads.

After writing along these lines so long it can be imagined with what gratification I greeted the president's recommendations when they came. It is true that his programme only directly concerns the sixth item, that relative to making farm life more attractive, but it will necessarily include also the fifth or good roads feature and the Cheer up! The worst is yet to come when the Legislature assembles in January.

Now that the battle is over and the smoke has cleared away, the howl about the vote buyer and seller sounds more like a case where the "pot calls the kettle black."

It is a downright shame when a man gets beat by such a narrow margin, as is the case with the Democratic State ticket. Of course, resort will be had to election contests. But then that is a game both sides can work at.

Rush county was not alone. In Wabash county the people rebuked a campaign of vilification by triumphantly electing every Republican candidate for county office. Both in that county, and in Howard county, the Republican leaders are willing that the "books be opened" and that a complete investigation be made.

Walter Wellman, who poses as a political prognosticator, is about as reliable as Hicks is on the weather. He said Nebraska would probably go Republican. It went heavily Democratic. He said Indiana would go for Bryan. It went for Taft. He said Ohio was extremely close with the chances favoring Bryan. It gave Taft the normal Republican plurality. He said New York would be for Taft by a small plurality and it gave Taft more than it gave Roosevelt four years ago. The truth is that Wellman is no better posted than thousands of other men and his judgment is no better. Next time his predictions will not alarm as many people as they did this time. He drew a big salary for appearing to be wise.

That there was very little discussion on the question of tariff revision, is one of the striking peculiarities of the campaign just closed. Yet it was a virtual agreement made by the Republicans and the Democrats, as expressed in the Chicago and Denver platforms. At Chicago the Republican party at last declared "unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a special session of congress immediately following the inauguration of the next president," and at Denver the Democrats welcomed this "belated promise." That the Democrats, chose to neglect this traditional issue may be taken as a sign that they recognize the sincerity of the Republican leaders, who in this case, at least, have given ear to the voice of the people. The people are not concerned with the technicalities of the readjustment but they do insist that the favors lavished upon special interests shall cease.

Here is where we come in. The Republican national committee has written the Republican a letter. It is on beautiful stationery and is quite becoming in appearance, and it says:

"I wish to thank you, on behalf of the Literary Bureau of the Republican National Committee and the committee itself, for the courtesy and consideration with which you have treated our numerous requests during the campaign and for the invaluable aid which you have given to the party. To the disinterested loyalty of the Republican press of the United States must be ascribed an enormous proportion of the credit for the success of the campaign, and I can assure you that your attitude toward the National Committee and your willingness to aid in its work has been thoroughly appreciated."

Now that is to be our reward. If every Republican in Rush county will get up on his hind legs and holler "Amen" to that we will call it square.

INDIANA POLITICS

ROBERT G. TUCKER.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10.—The developments of the last twenty-four hours leave no doubt that Tom Taggart is a candidate for the United States senate, although he won't make a public announcement to that effect. John W. Kern, on the other hand, has made this announcement. Mr. Kern declared today that he has seen Taggart but once since the election and that he has not talked with him at all. This statement does away with the suspicion that Kern made his announcement after being assured privately by Taggart that the latter would not be a candidate. The Kern boom has received support from several unexpected sources. The Democratic Traveling Men's club of Indianapolis has endorsed him. The Democrats of several country localities have passed resolutions urging his election. Kern himself says that he made his announcement after receiving assurance of support from prominent Democrats throughout the state. No one can tell how the twelve members of the Indianapolis delegation will vote. Most of them have been lieutenants of Taggart's for many years, but it was said today that three or four may support Kern. Taggart was very busy here today among his friends. He said that he will not make any statement until after the contests over the state ticket are decided. That he came here to aid the boys on the Democratic state ticket was his assertion. In spite of the fight made against Taggart at the last reorganization of the committee, it is conceded that he is in better standing with his party in Indiana than for many years. To his genius for organization is due in a large measure the election of a Democratic governor and a Democratic legislature. He was the largest contributor in Indiana to Bryan's campaign fund, subscribing $1,000 in one lump. It was admitted generally today that it will not do for the other candidates to underestimate the strength of Taggart. At this time it is believed that he has more votes pledged than any other candidate.

Few changes in the personnel of the elective offices in the state house will be made as the result of the recent election with the exception, of course, of the governor's office and the office of the state superintendent. It has been announced by officials from the other offices, including the office of the auditor of state, the treasurer, the attorney general and others that no changes will be made in the office force. State Superintendent Fassett A. Cotton will not retire until March 15, after he has submitted his biennial report to the legislature. The vote on the national ticket in Indiana will not be totaled probably until the end of this week. It is necessary to add the figures of the vote for Bryan and Taft separately from the state candidates, and until the latter vote is all officially added there will be nothing done with the national ticket. After the figures are all added by the secretary of state and his deputies the entire vote will be canvassed before the governor.

As a result of the recent election Senator Beveridge is placed in the unusual position of having the power of recommending practically all of the federal appointments in this state. There comes to him, through the fact that a Democratic United States senator will be elected and the fact that Republican congressmen have been elected only from the Sixth and Tenth districts, all the patronage that formerly was divided between him and his Republican colleague from Indiana in the senate and the various Republican congressmen. Exception, of course, is made to the congressional appointments from the Sixth and Tenth districts.

There is a small army of hungry Democrats who are looking for jobs at the state house. Friends of "Billy" Fogarty, Democratic chairman of Marion county, at the proper time will urge Mr. Marshall to recognize him with one of the best appointments within the gift of the governor. They say that Mr. Fogarty is entitled to this recognition because of the large Democratic majority which Marion county piled up and to the first-class organization effected by Mr. Fogarty.

CURRENT COMMENT

Farming Mastered While You Wait.
The country life commission evidently thinks it has a great find in a letter recently received by the president from a correspondent who has "been a farm hand long enough" to learn all about the "ifs" and "ands" the commission is to investigate. He stayed on the job. It seems, just long enough to learn that the farmer and all hands work fourteen to sixteen hours a day, that live stock has wants on Sundays as well as week days which the farmer is inclined to respect, that hay hauled to the barn late Saturday night is unloaded on Sunday instead of waiting for Monday to dawn, and so on.

If this star witness for the prosecution had remained a farm hand awhile longer he might have gained considerable knowledge that does not appear in the letter which the commission has sent broadcast for publication. For instance, he would have learned that field workers do not toll fourteen to sixteen hours a day the year round nor even every week day of the crop season; that there is a business reason for the long hours when kept and also for doing certain odds and ends on Sunday, a reason why hay should be unloaded from the wagon to the haymow on Sunday instead of delaying the removal twenty-four hours; that "business methods" do govern farm work, and these must be formulated in the country, not in the town. Much more he would have learned, and this chiefly—that Dame Nature, not man, bosses things on the farm. With this last lesson well "dragged" in, he would have known better than to write such a letter, especially if expecting ever to face farming folk again.

Trade Schooling For the Mass.
Recently the efficiency of our public school system has been savagely attacked, and it is a relief to turn from destructive criticism to methods of improvement. It has been charged that the schools fail to equip the young for life's problems and that the majority of pupils quit school ahead of time. The obvious remedy is to furnish training which is practical and give pupils an incentive to stick out the course.

New York's state superintendent of instruction, Dr. Draper, has placed himself on record as favoring the incorporation of trade schools into the system of public education. This policy is now supported by President Goodwin of Packer Institute, a pioneer technical school. Dr. Goodwin holds that it is the duty of the state to prepare children for gainful occupations and that the public school is the proper place for it. He thinks that the prospect of trade training would keep the pupils longer in school and that the mental work would be less irksome if combined with manual labor. Of course study hours would have to be lengthened or some of the book work cut out.

Canada's Election and the Tariff.
There appears to be no protest against Canada's present tariff policy in the vote cast at the recent parliamentary elections. The Liberals returned to power will be likely to continue the protective system they have maintained for the past ten years. In this respect they stand in their opponents' camp.

In spite of Canada's discrimination favoring Great Britain as against the United States in the matter of import duties our exports to Canada have been steadily growing. Great Britain's exports to Canada have almost doubled within ten years. This happy trade experience with Canada under the preferential system may lead the mother country to adopt a discriminating policy favoring all her colonies at the expense of other nations. In this case the United States is certain to be interested.

National Degeneracy
Our Chief Menace.

By Dr. ALLAN McLANE HAMILTON, Insanity Expert.

NATIONAL degeneracy, I am afraid, is our chief menace. I take New York as a fair example of general standards. OUR BOHEMIANISM IS BRUTAL, VULGAR. It has no fellowship or camaraderie in it. It is a region of cafes and restaurants, where men and women prey upon one another. OUR SOCIETY IS IMITATED WITHOUT ORIGINALITY, with absurd exhibitions of loud taste and ill proportioned artistry.

WE ARE FREE TO THE VERGE OF OPEN REVOLT AGAINST THE LAWS OF MOSES, THAT ARE NEEDED, BUT IGNORED.

We have all the license of foreign decadence, with a UNIQUE DEGENERACY OF OUR OWN that no foreign city would endure because OF ITS CRUELTY, ITS SAVAGERY. We read chiefly false exaggerations of science and outrageous exposes of forbidden crimes. Of course, press censorship is impossible in the present state of political conflict.

I CONSIDER THAT A LARGE PART OF THE SO CALLED EMOTIONAL INSANITY THAT LEADS TO CRIME IN NEW YORK IS DUE TO THESE SENSATIONALLY FALSE AND BLATANT EXPOSURES IN CERTAIN NEWSPAPERS OF DISASTERS THAT WE NEVER HEARD OF BEFORE AND WOULD NEVER HEAR OF AGAIN EXCEPT FOR THEIR IMPRESSION UPON HALF FORMED MINDS AND YOUNG PEOPLE.

Our novels—where can you get one that's WORTH READING? It is either a wildly improbable problem or a silly colonial story. WE ARE AFFLICTED WITH BATHOS, BUT WE HAVE NO TIME FOR PATHOS.

Minute Hold-Ups On the Street

Hiram Price, (keeper of the hitch rack) "This beating of Watson beats me. But its the same old story. And I hope history repeats itself all along the line as it did when they beat Ben Harrison. There was a temperance issue in the campaign of '76 that Ben was beat for governor. He was afterwards elected President. I hope Watson will be as fortunate; he is deserving and thoroughly competent in my estimation. I remember that campaign well. It was just such a year as this. The fall was dry and we sowed the wheat in the dust as we did this year. Had no rain all winter—just Democratic rule. And scarcely any ground froze up and very little wheat came up. All I hope now is that Jim comes up like Ben did."

What Our Neighbors
Are Talking About

GETTING GOOD THERE

(Kokomo Tribune.)

Just a week has elapsed since there was an arrest by the local police. This remarkable record was made during a national election, and is the first of its kind in Kokomo. There was not even a case of intoxication, and while there were a few little altercations, none of them was serious enough for police cognizance.

MEN ARE BUT CHILDREN ETC.

(Connersville News.)

Thursday night on train No. 12, on the C. H. & D., a couple of the express men had a friendly wrestling match in the express car. While engaged in pulling each other, one of the messengers dropped his revolver. The revolver fell on the hammer and was discharged with a loud report but the ball luckily passed into the wall of the car without hitting anyone. It was reported that the messenger had been hit by the ball but this report could not be verified.

BY THE WAYSIDE

The bitterest tears shed over graves are for the words left unsaid and deeds left undone. "She never knew how I loved her." "He never knew what he was to me." "I always meant to make more of our friendship." Such words are the poisoned arrows which cruel death shoots backward at us from the grave.

Chug-chug.
Br-r-r. br-r-r.
Honk-honk.
Gilligillug-gillilillug.

The pedestrian paused at the intersection of two busy cross streets. He looked about. An automobile was rushing at him from one direction, a motorcycle from another, an auto-truck was coming from behind and a taxicab from a side street.

Zip-zip. Zing-glug.
He looked up and saw directly above him a runaway airship in rapid descent.

There was but one chance. He was standing upon a manhole cover. Quickly seizing it, he lifted the lid and jumped into the hole just in time to be run over by a subway train.

Here's Where the Fun Comes In

For the first time since the installation of the new automatic phone the elderly lady of the household was left alone. Often she had viewed with silent admiration the wonderful working of the "new thingamajig." She did not care to understand the why and the wherefore of the mechanism; she was satisfied to depart this life knowing it "did move"—that was all she cared about. But the inevitable happened. She was sitting in the old arm chair mending some hose, as she was wont to do in the long afternoons; mending hose that nobody would ever wear. The bell rang. She looked at it with little concern. She had never answered the phone—and more she never intended to, for there were unusually plenty around to do that. She shook her head. The third time there was a violent ringing that fairly upset her nerves. To put a stop to it all she advanced toward the phone cautiously, and taking the receiver off the hook declared in a most emphatic manner: "There is nobody here." Of course the party at the other end did not understand—not a bit of it, and accepted it as a polite rebuke.

FRUIT BUYERS IN MEXICO

One of the men who went down to Mexico, who is connected with the colony membership of the Southern Mexico Development Company, writes us that the territory is alive with banana, pineapple and orange buyers.

The profit on bananas is something astounding to farmers in Rush county. To make a net profit of $150 per acre would seem impossible, but that is less than the average profit on bananas cultivated in the territory of the Southern Mexico Development Company's lands.

The pineapples weighing from 6 to 20 pounds bring a profit of from $300 to $500 per acre.

This looks like intensive farming, but it isn't. It is only making the right use of the noble opportunity in that country.

The experience necessary to begin the cultivation of these money-bringing products is made available to buyers of land through the Southern Mexico Development Company's colony organization. Samples of the pineapples, bananas, and oranges, and many other fruits are on exhibition at 129 West Second street, Rushville.

BUTTER SCARCE
AND SO IS MILK

Both Products Fall Short of the Demand Here and Over Entire Country.

PASTURES ALL BURNED UP

Drouth Which Has Continued for so Long is Real Cause of Present Shortage.

Rushville is threatened with a milk and butter famine. Pastures have been burned up, and the supply of the lacteal fluid has depreciated day by day until a real problem has arisen. Merchants and housewives have had a hard time getting dairy supplies required for the market and for the house. Especially is this true regarding the scarcity of butter.

"It is no use raising the price of butter," said a merchant a few days ago. "We can't get any more than we are getting."

Sensational and startling as the statement may appear, it is vouched for by every dairyman in the country.

The cause of the threatened evil is the lack of rain. Since August 17, there has been but two good rain-falls in this country, and as a result the pastures have been practically burned up. This being the case, the cows have had no place to graze, and the milk supply, in consequence, is daily diminishing at an alarming rate.

"It will not be long, providing the present drought continues, before I shall be obliged to discontinue delivering milk to my patrons in Rushville," stated a dairyman yesterday. "My pastures have literally been burned up and my cows have no place to graze," he continued. "Already I have been obliged to cut down on my supply of milk to each of my patrons, and to supply what I am now giving them I am obliged to buy daily ten gallons of milk from farmers who are not actively engaged in the dairy business."

The dairymen referred to is not the only one operating in Rush county who is thus affected.

SOCIETY NEWS

The Naomi Circle will meet next Monday evening with Mrs. Baxter in North Willow street.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Craig entertained at six o'clock dinner this evening the following guests, Mr. and Mrs. John Cowan and daughter Anna Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Miller and son Howard, Miss Hattie Kerr, Miss Tate, and Mr. Paul Kerr.

Mr. and Mrs. James Warfield entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William Wyrick, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ridout, Mrs. Lizzie McKinney, and Mrs. James McKinney and children, in honor of Mr. James Jones and son Stephen, of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Raymond Hargrove personally conducted the Coterie on a "seeing Rush county in bus" tour on Monday afternoon, when a trip to the country home of Mrs. Alfred Blackledge was taken. "Always room for one more" was proved false on this occasion, for "one more" would have been compelled to ride on top of the vehicle, were perched two gleeful "tiny tads," Richard Pugh and John Davis.

Many curious sights were witnessed on the way, as a "flock" of buffalo grazing near the pyramids at the foot of Pike's Peak. On arriving at the end of the journey, all formed in line, marching to the house to the tune, "We're here because," etc.

It was with difficulty that the Coterie resumed its wonted dignity long enough to listen to an excellent paper by Mrs. Blackledge on the English-American artist Whistler.

The peculiar genius of this artist, the oddities of his nomenclature, and the eccentricities of the man were all brought out in a forceful manner, and copies of his mother's portrait given as souvenirs.

A dainty lunch closed one of the happiest affairs the Coterie has ever enjoyed.

Mrs. Hargrove spent the trip home in trying to find out how much thirteen times twenty-three is. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Davis Nov. 23.

The Tri Kappas held their regular meeting last night at the home of Miss Henrietta Coleman in West Third street. After the meeting the members of the sorority were entertained by Mrs. Ida Spurrier McDaniel at her home in Harrison street with an oyster supper.

About forty friends and relatives gave Oda Winkler a complete surprise Sunday, November 8, at his home in Jackson township, it being his thirty-sixth birthday anniversary. With music and a bountiful dinner the day was enjoyably spent. Those present were Frank Sample and family, John Weiss and wife, Charles Smith and family, Roll Rogers and family, George Winkler and family of Arlington; Jesse Winkler and family of New Salem; Mrs. Frank Adams and son Charlie and Joe Winkler of Mays; Linnie Winkler of Arlington; Miss Dora Winkler, Ed. Winkler and family and Jefferson Winkler of Franklin.

GRAND CIRCUIT MEET PROPOSED

Indiana Horsemen Making Effort to Open Season With Indianapolis Meeting.

DICK WILSON A PROMOTER

Leading Followers of the Turf Are Organizing an Association—
Boon For Breeders.

From present indications Indianapolis will be in the grand racing circuit next season. A number of the most prominent and most influential horsemen in Indiana—including Dick Wilson, of this city, who is a prominent figure in the movement—are planning to organize a big company that will back such an event.

For the past several days the horsemen have been meeting in private session in the capitol city talking over and formulating plans. It is understood that already the movement has gained a substantial basis from the number of men who have signified their willingness to join in the organization of an association and put their John Hancock to a paper with a neat sum opposite their name.

If such an organization materializes—and it should by all means—it will mean much to the racing game and to the breeders and trainers of fast horses in the Hoosier State. If there is any one State in the Union that should support—and enthusiastically support—a grand circuit meeting in the first city of the State it is Indiana. Some of the best horses given to the world in the past few years—and in fact since the speedy horse game has been on a business basis—came from goodly old Indiana.

It is the intention of the promoters to have the first meet of the season, occupying the week preceeding the Detroit meeting.

(New Castle Courier.)

The campaign of 1908 is now but a memory. But there are some features about it that will go down in history. Among these features—and not the least, by any means—is that K-town organization which created so much comment, the Tambourine Girls. The girls made only one brief visit to New Castle, but they certainly were there with the goods, and they made a decided hit with some of the boys who always have one ear cocked up listening for something that makes a noise like a skirt.

Some other places they blessed with their presence for a longer period of time.

THE VERY HIGHEST QUALITY

Lady Betty Across the Water

By C. N. & A. M. WILLIAMSON COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

Mohunsligh was disappointed because that Californian friend of his (whom he would have visited if it hadn't been for failing in love unexpectedly and getting married) couldn't come and be his best man. He urged him, but something interfered. Mohunsligh didn't tell us what, and Mr. Jameson B. Harborough wasn't even able to come to the wedding. I was disappointed, too, as Mohunsligh had told us such romantic things about his friend that we all wanted to see him. Mr. Harborough had been a sailor and a cowboy and had left everything to fight in the Spanish war, where he'd done brave and splendid things, and might have stayed in the army afterward as a captain if he had liked. But he preferred to go back to his old, free life and was still a poor young man until two or three years ago, when some land in which he'd invested a few savings turned out to have gold in it—quantities of gold, gold enough to make a famous mine and give Mr. Harborough a great fortune. Sully knew a good deal about the new millionaire too. It seemed that cousins of his in the west somewhere were acquaintances of hers and had told her how immensely he had been sought out and flattered in San Francisco and other places since he'd become rich. He hated it so much that he'd gone abroad and stopped a long time, wandering about in strange eastern countries making friends with Bedouins and people like that who love horses better than money, and on account of certain experiences with women he'd got almost a morbid horror of falling in love with some girl who would only pretend to like him, while in reality all she cared about was his money. Nobody in Mrs. Ess Kay's set knew Jameson B. Harborough, though everybody would like to, so it was a blow to others beside Mohunsligh and me that he couldn't or wouldn't show himself at Newport for the wedding.

With the exception of this one hitch nothing went wrong so far as the wedding party was concerned, but with me things began to go very wrong several days before Caro and Mohunsligh were married. There was a fuss of some sort between Sally and Mrs. Ess Kay, and Sally came to me, very much upset, to say that she would have to leave the Moorings immediately, she couldn't stand it twenty-four hours longer, even for my sake. She had promised to visit a friend in Chicago sooner or later, so she would go straight to her, and if anything too tiresome should happen before I was ready to sail for home, I had better run out there—the friend would be delighted to have me. Sally gave me the address, and I told her I would write often, but of course I didn't dream of having to accept her invitation. I missed her badly, but not as much as if the wedding had not been so near.

Poor old Mohunsligh—who knows more about the manners of polar bears than etiquette in American society—was coached by Potter, and the night before the wedding rehearsal reluctantly gave an elaborate dinner to his best man (an officer in Stan's regiment who happened to turn up) and the six ushers. The same day Carolyn had her matron of honor and the bridesmaids to lunch, and we did have fun talking over things. I should have thought a luncheon with all girls and no men might have been a little tame, and perhaps it would in England, but in America girls are not at all shy. They say just as funny things as men, and take the most beautiful pains to amuse each other, so that it's impossible to be bored, and for hours on end you forget there is such a creature as man.

At home Mohunsligh would have had to give us things, of course, but in America it appears that the bridegroom makes presents to the best man and the ushers, so it was from Carolyn that I got a duck of a brooch, like an American flag, with stripes of diamonds and rubies and the blue part sapphires. Mohunsligh said that, as he was awfully hard up, it was bad luck for him to have to provide each of the bridesmaids with bouquets and chiffon muffs, and he could not see at all that it was a pretty idea for everything they carried in their hands to come from the bridegroom. But as Sally had told me that Carolyn's father had settled ten million dollars on her, I don't think Mohunsligh need have complained.

Although it was in a house, the wedding was very picturesque, and the bride and groom stood under a bell of white roses about as large as Big Ben. I enjoyed it all immensely, for it was my first time as bridesmaid, and I had a lovely frock and hat (copied from an old picture) for which—when I wanted the bill—I found Sally had paid. There was a crush at the reception, but it only lasted two hours. After the bride and groom had gone, with showers of rice and satin slippers, we stayed and had a dance—just the ushers and bridesmaids and a few young people who were intimate friends of Carolyn's.

It was then that my greatest troubles began. On a pretense of showing some wedding presents which he said I hadn't seen because they were in a different room from the others Potter got me alone and proposed again. This time he didn't laugh and joke, as he had before, so that I could take it half in fun even while it made me uncomfortable, but was very serious indeed. When I wanted to go out he stood in front of the door and wouldn't let me pass, and his chin and eyes looked so horribly determined that he was more like Mrs. Ess Kay than ever.

"My dear little ladyship," he said, "you're not going to get away until you've given me my answer."

"But I have given it," said I. "I don't call what you've given me an answer, because, you see, I want you so much, and I've made up my mind so hard and fast to have you that I shan't take 'no' for an answer." "I don't see how you can help it, as it's the only one I have to give, and I've told you that two dozen times at least," I said, beginning to feel irritable, as I always have from the first whenever Potter talked about love.

"I know you have, but that doesn't count. There's no such word as fail in the bright lexicon of my youth. Look here, dear girl, you don't quite realize perhaps what a good time I'd give you if you married me. I've got as much money as my sister has, and I'd do just as you liked about staying in the army. You could have a house in New York and a whole, real live castle in your own country if you liked. I wouldn't care a rap how much you spent on clothes, and there isn't a woman in America who's got better jewels than you should have. I'd see to that. Besides, you could do what you choose for your own people. I couldn't stint you. I want to be friends with them. I never talked like this to you before, but you see what I mean. And now, isn't what I've said any inducement?" "I wouldn't need any such inducements if I loved you," I answered, "but I don't and can't, and somehow I never have been able to believe that you really loved me."

"If that's the trouble you can make your mind easy. I want you badly."

"Then I'm sorry, for I simply can't marry you. I should be miserable and so would you."

"I'll risk that. You're too much of an English rosebud to understand anything about love. What you must do is to trust others who know what you ought to want better than you do yourself—your mother, for instance. You'd like to please her and your sister and brother, wouldn't you? Well, they all want you to say yes to me."

"How do you know?" I broke out.

"I do know. You can ask Kath if it isn't true."

"I don't want to talk to her about it." "You needn't if you'll only be a good girl and do what everybody expects you to do. Come now, do say yes, and let's be happy."

That did make me furious. "Any one would think I was a naughty child and you were some kind of medicine the whole family was waiting for me to take!" I exclaimed. "It's a wonder you don't get out your watch and give me five minutes to do it in."

His eyes began to sparkle with anger. I believe he would have liked to box my ears, and I know I could have boxed his.

"I thought English girls were brought up to be sensible," said he, "and amiable."

"I can't help what you thought," I answered rudely, for I was getting desperate. "You've no right to keep me here like this, and it won't do you a bit of good, for if you stand there till we're both in our second childhood I won't change my mind. You ought to know that now, Mr. Parker. Please let me go."

He didn't move. "If you don't I'll scream at the top of my lungs," I said. And he must have seen that I meant it, for he flung open the door with a slam, and I swept past him with my nose in the air, trying to look like mother.

I didn't see him again till it was time to go home. Then he drove back with Mrs. Ess Kay and me to the Moorings in the shut up motor car and didn't open his mouth once on the way, which was wonderful for him and seemed somehow ominous.

I had been too angry and excited after that scene of ours to feel unhappy or to worry much about what might come next, but that drive, short as it was, with Potter freezing silent and Mrs. Ess Kay alarmingly polite, made me feel that the end had come. I was sure she had been told by her brother what an obstinate, ungrateful girl I was, and I had a guilty sinking of the heart as if I really had been both. There was no Sally to protect me now, no one to advise me what to do, and there was a big lump in my throat as I said good night and went to my own room.

I hadn't been there long when there came a knock at the door, the same determined kind of inexorable knock which mother gives when I've been found out in something which she thinks it her duty to make me sorry for.

I'd locked the door and would have liked to make some excuse not to open it, but it was Mrs. Ess Kay's door and Mrs. Ess Kay's room just as much as it was Mrs. Ess Kay's brother I had refused.

She sailed in all in black, like an executioner, though, of course, executioners don't go down into history wearing chiffon trimmed with jet.

"My dear Betty," said she, subsiding into a large armchair, "I want to have a serious talk with you."

It would have been stupid pretend-

"My dear Betty, I want to have a serious talk with you."

ing not to understand, so I just looked at her and waited.

"I dare say you can guess what it's about?" she went on.

"I suppose so," I said. "I am very sorry about everything. But I can't help not being in love with Mr. Parker, can I?"

"I should have thought," said Mrs. Ess Kay, "that your mother's daughter would have attached very little importance to being in love. Apparently she hasn't been as successful with you as with Lady Victoria. Believe me, Betty, there's nothing in it—nothing at all."

"In what?"

JURY NEARING COMPLETION

Evidence in Guinness Case May Begin This Afternoon.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 10.—Contrary to all expectations, the state in the trial of Ray Lamphere for the murder of Mrs. Belle Guinness and her three children, "passed the jury" late Monday afternoon, thereby expressing its willingness to accept the twelve men who then filled the jury box. As a result, the indications are that the introduction of evidence will commence late this afternoon.

All of the veniremen accepted by the state favored capital punishment if the evidence warranted, while those so far accepted by the defense stated that, although they had read much on both sides of the theory, they had formed no opinion as to whether Mrs. Guinness was dead or alive and had no opinion as to whether Lamphere was guilty or innocent. The special panel of twenty-five having been exhausted, another special venire of the same number was ordered.

Throughout the proceedings Lamphere exhibited considerable concern at times and held consultations with his attorney. At other times he sat down low in his chair, apparently oblivious to all that was going on.

D. M. Hudson, the neighbor of Mrs. Guinness, who was one of Sheriff Smutzer's assistants and helped dig out the four bodies from the fire ruins, and who has since declared that he saw Mrs. Guinness visit the farm on July 9, spent most of the day around the courthouse, though he was not permitted to enter the courtroom, owing to the order of Judge Richter that all witnesses be excluded. He was willing at all times to re-tell with much gusto of Mrs. Guinness's alleged visit to the farm almost three months after she was supposed to have lost her life in the flames.

FAVORABLE TO KENTUCKY

High Court's Decision in the Berea College Case.

Washington, Nov. 10.—In deciding the case of Berea college vs. the State of Kentucky favorably to the state, the supreme court of the United States held that the states of the Union may constitutionally legislate to prevent the co-education of the white and black races. The case was instituted to test the validity of the state law of 1904 prohibiting white and black children from attending the same schools. The higher state court took the position that the white and black races are naturally antagonistic and that the enforced separation of the children of the two is in the line of the preservation of the peace.

The opinion of the supreme court was handed down by Justice Brewer and affirmed the finding of both the Kentucky circuit court and the court of appeals. Justices Harlan and Day dissented.

Stop That Cold

To check early colds or Grippe with "Preventics" means sure defeat for Pneumonia. To stop a cold with Preventics is safer than to let it run and be obliged to cure it afterwards. To be sure, Preventics will cure even a deeply seated cold, but taken early—at the sneeze stage—they break, or head off these early colds. That's surely better. That's why they are called Preventics. No Quinine, no phlegm, nothing sickening. Nice for the children—and thoroughly safe too. If you feel chilly, if you sneeze, if you ache all over, think of Preventics. Promptness may also save half your usual sickness. And don't forget your child, if there is feverishness, night or day. Herein probably lies Preventics' greatest efficiency. Sold in 5c boxes for the pocket, also in 25c boxes of 48 Preventics. Insist on your druggists giving you

It's a Good Sound Common Sense Policy

To use medicines only of KNOWN COMPOSITION, and which contain neither alcohol nor habit-forming drugs. It is foolish—often dangerous to do otherwise. The most intelligent people, and many of the most successful, conscientious physicians, follow this judicious course of action. The leading medical authorities, of all schools of medicine, endorse the ingredients composing Dr. Pierce's medicines. These are plainly printed on wrappers and attested under oath. There's no secrecy; an open publicity, square-deal policy is followed by the makers.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, devised and gotten up by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in treating woman's peculiar diseases and carefully adapted to work in harmony with her delicate organization, by an experienced and skilled specialist in her maladies.

THE ONE REMEDY for woman's ailments, sold by druggists, which contains neither alcohol (which to most women is the rankest poison) or other injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY for women, the composition of which is so perfect and good that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient, in plain English on its outside bottle-wrapper, and attest the correctness of the same under oath.

We have a profound desire to avoid all offense to the most delicate sensitiveness of modest women, for whom we entertain the most sincere respect and admiration. We shall not, therefore, particularize here concerning the symptoms and peculiar ailments incident to the sex for which Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has for more than 40 years proven such a boon. We cannot, however, do a better service to the afflicted of the gentler sex than to refer them to Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a great family doctor book of 1000 pages, bound in cloth and given away gratis, or sent, post-paid, on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps—to cover cost of mailing only. All the delicate ailments and matters about which every woman, whether young or old, single or married, should know, but which their sense of delicacy makes them hesitate to ask even the family physician about, are made plain in this great book. Write for it.

Bloody News Suppressed.

Paris, Nov. 10.—A special despatch from Belgrade says a band of Bosnian refugees from the mountains on Friday blew up with dynamite the barracks at Konitz, a town in Herzegovina, which is situated about 8 miles from the Serbia frontier, killing 170 German speaking Austrian soldiers. The despatch also says that the Austrian papers have suppressed this news.

Logansport Student Shoots Himself.

Boston, Nov. 10.—Cloyd Gray Hershey, aged twenty-five years, of Logansport, Ind., a graduate of DePaul university and a junior in the Boston University School of Theology, committed suicide by shooting himself through the brain at his room at the school. The cause of the suicide is not known.

How to Cure Skin Diseases.

Eczema, pimples, dandruff and itching skin diseases are of local origin and are caused by germs. In order to cure these diseases the germs and their poisons must be driven to the surface of the skin and destroyed. Salves and greasy lotions may give temporary relief, but they do not destroy the germs that cause the disease. A St. Louis chemist has discovered a clean vegetable liquid remedy that will draw the germs and their poisons to the surface of the skin and destroy them, leaving a nice, clear, healthy skin. This remedy is known as Zemo, and by its many remarkable cures has attracted the attention of the leading scientists and skin specialists of this country and Europe.

Zemo has been given the most cordial reception by the public of any similar remedy ever produced, and it is recognized as an honest medicine that makes honest cures.

Zemo is for sale everywhere. You can obtain a trial package free by writing to the E. W. ROSE MEDICINE CO., St. Louis, Mo. Mr. F. E. Wolcott has secured the agency for Zemo in Rushville, and will gladly show you proof of some of the wonderful cures made by this remarkable remedy.

COMMON SENSE

Leads most intelligent people to use only medicines of known composition. Therefore it is that Dr. Pierce's medicines, the makers of which print every ingredient entering into them upon the bottle wrappers and attest its correctness under oath, are daily growing in favor. The composition of Dr. Pierce's medicines is open to everybody. Dr. Pierce being desirous of having the search light of investigation turned fully upon his formulae, being confident that the better the composition of these medicines is known the more will their great curative merits be recognized. Being wholly made of the medicinal principles extracted from native forest roots, by exact processes original with Dr. Pierce, and without the use of a drop of alcohol, triple-refined and chemically pure glycerine being used instead in extracting and preserving the curative virtues residing in the roots employed, these medicines are entirely free from the objection of doing harm by creating an appetite for either alcoholic beverages or habit-forming drugs. Examine the formula on their bottle wrappers—the same as sworn to by Dr. Pierce, and you will find that his "Golden Medical Discovery," the great blood-purifier, stomach tonic and bowel regulator—the medicine which, while not recommended to cure consumption in its advanced stages (no medicine will do that) yet does cure all those catarrhal conditions of head and throat, weak stomach, torpid liver and bronchial troubles, weak lungs and hang-on-coughs, which, if neglected or badly treated lead up to and finally terminate in consumption. Take the "Golden Medical Discovery" in time and it is not likely to disappoint you if only you give it a thorough and fair trial. Don't expect miracles. It won't do supernatural things. You must exercise your patience and persevere in its use for a reasonable length of time to get its full benefits. The ingredients of which Dr. Pierce's medicines are composed have the unqualified endorsement of scores of medical leaders—better than any amount of lay, or non-professional, testimonials. They are not given away to be experimented with but are sold by all dealers in medicines at reasonable prices.

JUNGLE TALK IN WHITE HOUSE

African Captain Tells President Roosevelt of Big Game.

With stories of his narrow escapes in the jungle from African man eating lions, elephants, rhinoceroses and other animals, Captain Fred Lindsay, a wealthy ranch owner of East Africa, arrived at Philadelphia recently from Washington, where he had a long interview with President Roosevelt.

Captain Lindsay says the president was much interested in his description of the game possibilities of Africa and was pleased to learn that the people of the dark continent are anxious to welcome him on his hunting trip. They promise him the greatest trip of his life.

Captain Lindsay talked at the White House with the president for nearly an hour on big game in East Africa.

"The president seemed utterly surprised," said Captain Lindsay, "when I told him how numerous big game was in our country, and he made all kinds of inquiries. 'I want to shoot a lion and an elephant,' the president said. 'Do you think I can get them? When I told him he would have no trouble in getting any number of what he wanted he smiled and seemed pleased. I told him how delighted everybody was when they heard of his contemplated trip and that he would get a warm welcome from the people there.

"We talked of big game, of rifles and modes of hunting for nearly an hour. When we parted he shook me warmly by the hand and told me he was sorry he couldn't talk to me longer. I told Mr. Roosevelt we would be glad to see him any time. Ours is a big country—bigger than most Americans think. Our bamboo forests are full of elephants. Of course I don't mean to say the beasts come knocking at the back door asking to be shot, but if a hunter has a little patience he will be rewarded. As for hippopotamuses, there are certain lake regions that abound with these beasts.

"A hunter in Africa must have a license from the government to shoot animals. Of course if he be a ranch owner or holder of any kind of an estate he is at liberty to kill as much game as he can on his own land. The only stipulation the government makes in such cases is that it shall be given the skins of any animals killed.

"If President Roosevelt goes to Africa he will be permitted to shoot as many wild animals as he can find. There will be no talk of a government license. He is too much beloved there. It may surprise you to know that every shred of information about him is seized upon with avidity. I told the president this, and he was much pleased."

SOMETHING NEW IN BATTLESHIPS

Biggest Sea Fighter Afloat
Launched Today.

IT IS AMERICAN, OF COURSE

When the North Dakota Slid Off the Ways Today There Was Launched a Vessel Which Means the Introduction of a New Type of Warship in the American Navy—Christening Was Done by Miss Mary L. Benton of Fargo, a Daughter of the State From Which the Noble Ship Takes Its Name, Among the Invited Guests Being Governor Burke of the Favored State.

Quincy, Mass., Nov. 10.—Amid the shrieking of steam whistles, the flapping of flags and the cheers of a crowd of invited guests and shipyard officials and employees the new battleship North Dakota slid off the ways here at noon today.

As the great vessel quivered before taking her first plunge into the water Miss Mary L. Benton of Fargo, N. D., native daughter of the state from which the battleship takes her name, broke over her bow a bottle of champagne, declaring as she did so, "I name thee North Dakota.

Among the invited guests who witnessed the launching of the battleship was John Burke, the newly-elected governor of North Dakota.

The launching of the North Dakota means the introduction of a new type of warship in the American navy. She will be the first American all-big-gun battleship or real Dreadnought to fly the stars and stripes.

The North Dakota, which is similar in all respects to the Delaware, which is under construction at Newport News, Va., will have a long forecastle deck extending from the bow almost to the center of the ship. The ten twelve-inch guns are arranged in five turrets, two to a turret, the forward turret being so located that the axes of its guns are twenty-four feet above the water line, and just abaft this turret is another, the barbettes of which is of sufficient height for its guns to clear the roof of the forward turret.

Abaft the break of the forecastle deck and also situated on the axis of the ship are two more twelve-inch gun turrets, the guns of the forward turret in this pair firing over the roof of the after turret. Abaft and near the stern is the fifth and last of the big turrets. Naval men declare that no navy in the world possesses a ship of the Dreadnought type in which the guns are better arranged.

For repelling torpedo attack the North Dakota will carry a secondary battery of fourteen five-inch guns. These guns are all mounted broadside. The vessel will be driven by turbines and is expected to attain a maximum speed in excess of 21 knots an hour.

Beginning on next Monday, the supreme court of the United States will be in recess for two weeks.

ROBBERY AVERTED BY A BRAVE WOMAN

Burglars Attempt to Enter the Cloud Home One Night the Latter Part of Last Week.

BLUFFED HIM WITH A GUN

A robbery was narrowly averted one night the latter part of last week by the bravery of a woman, when burglars attempted to enter the Cloud home in North Sexton street. A noise was heard in the house during the night and Mrs. Cloud investigated, revolver in hand. She found a man attempting to enter the house and flashed the gun in his face, telling him to leave as soon as possible. The supposed robber ran around the corner of the house and has not been seen in that neighborhood since.

The attempted burglaries which have occurred over the city recently will result in something serious if an effort is not made to stop them. In most cases a member of the feminine sex has played a leading part.

HE TALKS TEXAS LIKE AN AGENT

P. A. Miller Returns Jubilant From Trip in the Lone Star State.

THE LAND OF MILK AND HONEY

Rushville Man is Highly Elated Over the Prospects of Farming in Southwest.

P. A. Miller has returned from a prospecting tour through Texas and he is as full of the West and the prospects of a rainbow hue as a forty-niner. He can talk the West as fluently as any land agent you ever heard and if you are not entirely prejudiced against that part of the States he can make you believe, without a question of a doubt, in about two shakes of a dead lamb's tail, that it is truly the land of milk and honey—the promised land. He left here the day of the election accompanied by E. W. Ball and James Evans of this city. He left those two gentlemen there while he hurried back to sing the praises of the golden west to his neighbors.

If you see him now you see a walking encyclopedia of information; a man with every pocket jammed full of books, maps, plats and photographs. He knows all about Texas from the time Bowie and Houston fought the picturesque fight at the Alamo unto how much rain falls there each year.

Up in one corner—a mere patch, hardly as big as Ohio and Indiana—in a territory known as the Panhandle, is where Mr. Miller got most of his enthusiasm and data. So well does he think of the country and the prospects that he is going to buy a section of land for his son, Thomas Miller, and send him there for permanent residence, if the boy will go.

Here are some of the facts Mr. Miller will drive home like a spell-binder, if you will lend your ear:

They get thirty bushels of wheat to the acre, using less than half a bushel of seed, where we use two bushels in this country. The wheat heads much better there. They are sowing now and they will plow all winter.

The surface soil is of a sandy nature and is from three to six feet deep. (This fact he ascertained by actual digging in various locations.)

The land sells from $15 to $20 an acre. The land is located on the A. T. & S. F. railroad. It promises to be the main line of a big corporation running through to California.

The beets, turnips, pumpkins, and in fact, vegetables of all sorts, grow in abundance and much larger than in this country.

The hogs were never known to have cholera.

The maize, kaffir corn and alfalfa makes excellent feed for all stock and are easily grown.

In raising cattle all one has to do is to brand as many head as they please and turn them loose on the prairie to graze.

Windmills can be seen on all sides. All wells must be driven but the finest kind of water is then found.

The climate is healthful and it is a joy to live there.

So sayeth P. A. Miller. He is fairly bubbling over with the joy of it, and declares if he was ten years younger he would cast his lot in that country and land of opportunity. And he says all of this without getting any commission, either. Being a farmer, he was forcibly struck with the country and for that end is now at work on his son inducing him to make for the West, where he can pile up enough wealth in a few years to return to this or any other land to live in comfort the rest of his days.

10 CENTS TO STOP THAT ITCH

How Easy to Get Relief—Instant Relief—From Skin Disease.

Is it worth 10 cents to you to stop that awful, awful agonizing itch?

If you are afflicted with skin disease, the kind that seems to baffle medical treatment, and leaves you wild with itch, we hope you will not fail to investigate a prescription which is now recommended by many of the best skin specialists, even in preference to their own prescriptions. It is the simple soothing oil of wintergreen compound known as D. D. D. Prescription. A 10 cent trial bottle must convince you that the itch is instantly allayed by this prescription. Get a liberal trial bottle of the healing, soothing, external remedy, D. D. D. Prescription—and see!

We feel quite sure that before long you will be cured, and at any rate we know—KNOW POSITIVELY—that your itch will be allayed instantly, the minute that soothing liquid is applied to the skin.

Thos. W. Lytle, Druggist.
Write direct to D. D. D. Co., 112 Michigan St., Chicago, enclosing 10 cents for the trial bottle.

FOR SALE—A bargain, 7 room house with cellar, barn, large henery, lots of fruit, two acres of ground, tubular well, ten minutes walk from court house. Address 111 West Second street, Rushville, Indiana. 204-t6

AMUSEMENTS

Billy Link's all-star vaudeville company played to a crowded house last night at the Grand theater. To say that Link has a good show would be putting it rather mildly, because every act is a strong feature.

Ola Hudson, the clever little song and dance artist, brought forth rounds of applause from the audience with each of her stunts. She is a marvel for her age, having a wonderfully matured voice.

Eddie Dwyer, alias Bud Hicks, who appeared here last winter with another show, made a decided hit with his skillful imitations.

Billy Link is one of the best monologue artists in the country and has played all the theaters in the big circuits.

This company will give another performance tonight at the Grand theater with a change of specialties.

The Vaudeville will have the same program tonight. Large crowds attended the shows last night.

DOES YOUR HOT WATER BOTTLE LEAK?

You never can tell when a Hot Water Bottle is going to make trouble by springing a leak. Hot Water Bottles are apt to give all sorts of trouble unless they are good, and it's hard to tell the difference between pure rubber and poor rubber in a Hot Water Bottle when it's new. The Therapeutic Value of a Hot Water Bottle is well known. The application of heat by this means quickly allays pain, reduces inflammation and combats disease in many ways. A Hot Water Bottle is needed by every family—that is a good one—we sell good ones and guarantee every one of them.
